

Published based on Bad Credit Home Loans

Bad Credit Home Loans

Bad Credit Home Loans

Bad Credit Home Loans

<http://www.realcase.com> Lenders assign you a credit score any time you apply for credit. This is there way of them determining whether you are a likely candidate to give credit to, or not.

The credit score is a 3 digit number, typically in the range of 300 to 850. At the low end 300 means you have very bad credit and would be unlikely to receive a loan, and on the other end of the scale a credit score of 850 would have the lender salivating at the opportunity to loan you a heap of money.

You can also find this article published on Bad Credit Home Loans, and on the tag pages Bad Credit Home Loans, Bad Loans, Credit Home Loans, Credit Loans, Credit Score, Digit Number, Heap, Home Loans Bad Credit, lenders, Loans Bad Credit, money, Salivating.